

Fact sheet: Ida Institute's e-Learning Laboratory

- An online educational portal created by Ida Institute to share various aspects of the Ida world, primarily the Ida tools, in ways that reflect the Ida approach to learning
- Innovative education modules transform the ways in which hearing healthcare professionals acquire new learning and skills in patient-centered care and fulfill continuing education requirements
- Designed to expand the reach of Ida learning and tools to audiologists, speech therapy specialists and others working in the field of hearing healthcare worldwide
- Ida's e-Learning Laboratory and e-Learning Modules are freely shared and available at no charge
- e-Learning modules feature the active engagement and reflection that are hallmarks of the Institute proprietary learning approach
- Animated instructors guide e-learners through a series of active learning experiences – including virtual client consultations – in life-like clinical settings
- Ethnographic videos, mirror exercises and reflective journaling provide an opportunity for practitioners to experience the Ida tools in a context that encourages reflection on prior knowledge, understanding and patterns of behavior
- Unique Personal Action Plan component incorporated as a final step in the learning process; facilitates patient-centered changes in clinical routines
- First e-Learning module features Ida's Motivation Tools, "The Line, The Box and The Circle" now available
- Motivation Tools module is approved for 0.2 CEUs by the American Academy of Audiology (AAA), 2 CPD points by the British Academy of Audiology (BAA), 1 CPED point per hour of study by Hearing Aid Audiometrist Society of Australia (HAASA) (in total approximately 2 points), maximum 2 points by the New Zealand Audiological Society (NZAS) and 4 CPD's by Audiology Australia (ASA); in process of securing additional certification approvals.
